ABOUT ME

I have been in retail for the past seven years. Working my way from a sales consultant to management. I enjoy working on a team to help push each other and be the best. I have always had a desire to be a web developer but wasn't sure where to begin. Then a friend of mine let me know about Nashville Software School. I began to do research and talked to some people who had been through boot camps and decided that this would be a good fit for me. It has definitely pushed me and there have been many tough times, but I enjoy the challenge and like that there is always something new to learn. I am eager to get into a career in this field and see where it takes me.

PROJECTS

FRONT END CAPSTONE

Animal Rescue is an application to help animals get adopted. It allows people to view animals at different shelters and make donations to each individual animal. They can choose to donate towards adoption fees and even toys and supplies for the animals. This would make the upfront cost involved with getting a new pet a lot less and hopefully would make more people want to adopt.

BACK END CAPSTONE

Home Customizer is a full stack application that uses javascript, CSS, React, C#, and SQL. I am developing this application for the company my wife works for. She works for a home builder that currently does not have a way to show clients what the outside of the house will look like with certain colors. They have certain color boards that the client can choose from to pick their colors. This application allows them to pick the community, the homes available in that community, and the colors available for the home they select. Once they make these selections it will produce an image of the home with those colors. The major hurdle I had to overcome with this application is learning how to use photoshop in about a week to change the colors of the homes. Currently this application is on my local computer.
